

The Australasian Evaluation Society

invites you to participate in an afternoon discussion on Evaluating Crime Prevention

How do we count the events that have been prevented (and therefore not happened) and how do we link their non-occurrence to a crime prevention project?

Friday 26 November 2010 (12.30 – 2.00)

*Where: The Lounge Room in Club Murdoch
(Off Bush Court, behind the Bankwest Branch)*

(Note: a small number of parking bays in car park 3 will be reserved for AES)

Evaluation of crime prevention projects is necessary but can be challenging. This discussion shares with you the experiences of the Office of Crime Prevention (WA Police) in developing evaluation methodologies to evaluate a number of crime prevention projects.

An overview is provided of the application of the following evaluation approaches:

- Program Logic
- Results based accountability
- Outcomes hierarchy

Also discussed is the development of a crime prevention evaluation framework that provides a strategic approach to:

- Evaluating individual crime prevention projects
- Evaluating the impact of projects at a geographical level
- Evaluating crime prevention at a multi-agency level

Presenter: Raiyana Pavan (Office of Crime Prevention, Executive Manager, Policy)
